Juvenile crime rate, types

Illegal possession of alcohol, driving violations, carrying concealed weapons, breaking and entering, public drunk and disturbing the peace, vagrancy and shop lifting are among the crimes cited this week by County Juvenile Officer Rev. William Kelly as principal causes for the more than 90 juvenile incidents recorded so far this year.

Stating that juvenile offenses show an increase within the county, Kelly says the grand total last year only amounted to 52.

"We are already well ahead of that," he said.

He said that many cases are not formally recorded since a child may be directly referred to his home by the police without charges being brought. With this year's figures first compared with 1967, monthly totals are, January, 11; February, 17; March, 15; April, 21; May, 26; June, 5.

Thomas said the commission had $139,518.93 in the bank as of May 1. Payments approved but not reflected in the balance are for Contract 1, Bauer Dredging, $3,789.26; Contract 2, L.S. Stockstill, $12,808.93; Contract 3, L.S. Stockstill, $7,837.25; airport-Yates and Paterson, $9,873.90; labor and expenses on harbor, $11,103.42. Total approved payments amounted to $95,410.76 leaving an unadjusted cash balance of $44,108.17.

On cash to be received as estimated by Thomas, U.S. Treasury Bills, due July 7 provide the biggest source of income at $198,290. Second, a transfer of funds from the port fund to the construction account accounted for a further $18,804.65 and a transfer to the account from the port and harbor operating fund of $48,000 added a total of $427,202.82

Tuesday's election

On Tuesday Hancock County voters participate in two different elections; one is the Democratic primary to nominate that party's candidate for the House of Representatives from the Fifth Congressional District; the other is a special election on three proposed amendments to the State Constitution.

The Democratic primary has aroused little interest primarily due to the fact that able veteran Congressman William M. (Bill) Colmer is opposed by three lightweights. Even if Colmer's opposition were of a serious nature we would vote for the veteran legislator if only because of his experience and standing in the Congress of the United States.

Just as the congressional race has aroused little interest, so have the proposed constitutional amendments. Somehow, or other, amendments to the constitution, no matter how important, just do not draw the interest that more personal contests do.

The first proposal on the special election ballot deals with the residence requirements to be able to vote in Mississippi. The proposal would reduce to one year's residency the present requirement of two years' residency in the state. One year residency in the county and six months in the precinct would still be required. If adopted this amendment would bring Mississippi's requirements in line with most of its sister states. With the increased transiency of our population an argument can be made that Mississippi's requirement of two years residency is too much. When voting is on a national issue, such as the presidential elections, except for administrative reasons, there is little reason to make any residency requirements. However, where state and local issues are concerned a short residency requirement permits transients with little knowledge of individuals or issues involved to vote. Self-styled liberals have long advocated this proposal. For ourselves, we can see just as much merit to increasing the residency requirements to five years. We will be non-conformist and vote "No."

The second amendment on the ballot would provide that the state legislature meet every year in regular session rather than every other year. Also, it provides that these sessions be of 90-day duration except every fourth year when the term is set at 125 days. This time limit, however, is effectively watered down by providing the legislature by three-fifths vote may extend the session by an unlimited number of 30-day increments. The annual session proposal has been urged repeatedly by such groups as the Mississippi Economic Council, etc. If nothing else, it would keep the legislature more nearly on top of the current scene, without the governor having to call a special session. We expect to vote "Yes".

The third constitutional amendment, while phrased in the negative, would permit the state legislature more latitude, where navigable waters are concerned, in assisting "the exploration, production and transportation of oil, gas and other minerals". We are not familiar with the problems here involved but we have no reason to disagree with the majority of the state legislature which proposes this amendment.

to the adjusted balance to show a total cash available figure of $34,100,000.

The sum on the cash balance carryover when Thomas outlined the balanced amounts of unpaid contracts, this in the sum left to pay after payments made so far have been deducted from the total contract price.

For those unpaid contracts Partin is due a further $30,100,50; Stokely $11,315,570.00 on contract 2 and $37,000.00 on contract 3. Total unpaid contracts therefore amount to $68,400,50.

Estimated engineering design work, of 10 percent of each, amounts to $3,000,000, while unpaid labor and expenses on Harbor Industrial site preparation had come to $10,000,00.

Total amount on unpaid contracts is $90,100,50 to which a further sum of $10,000.00 must be added on money required to repay a deposit made to the account in error and $100,000 for a travel and interest payment to be made April 1968.

This leaves a cash balance of $25,100,00.

Completion of the project of some $100,000,000 in cost, will require about $100,000,000. This is to be obtained by the preparation of three new sites, not the base economical route.

Responsibility of the company to site organization of the project and supervision of the work is to be assumed by the contractor, who will be responsible for the quality of the work.

Poor Stokely
buys a house

By Drew Pearson

Stokely Carmichael, the militant spokesman for the nation's disadvantaged Negroes, has just bought a house in a plush neighborhood off upper 16th Street in Washington. The price was $70,000—paid in cash. Not bad for a poor people's leader. However, the house is in the name of his new wife, Miriam Makeba, the Negro folk singer from Africa. It's understood she put up the money.

Bobby vs. Hoffa

When Bobby Kennedy reached into a Louisiana prison to fish out Edward G. Partin as a star witness against Jimmy Hoffa, it created headlines around the nation. Recent developments have not caught up with the headlines.

The other day U.S. District Judge E. Gordon West accused Bobby Kennedy of "a payoff for testimony in the Hoffa case." He excoriated the Justice Department for moving to dismiss charges against Partin.

"He is making a mockery of justice," the judge announced from the bench.

Judge West was indignant because, shortly after Partin was used as the star witness against Hoffa, the Justice Department slowed up in its prosecution of its own star witness. Then last month it filed a motion to dismiss the 26-count indictment against Partin in which he was charged with 13 counts of embezzlement of union funds and 13 counts of making false entries in Teamsters Union books.

The Justice Department told the judge that "no bargain was made," but obviously the judge did not believe it.

"Are the interests of justice to be served by the granting of lifetime immunity to this defendant because of the wishes of one province Attorney General?" Judge West demanded, referring to Bobby Kennedy.

The judge's torrid words supported the vigorous dissent written by Chief Justice Earl Warren, who also denounced the former Attorney General's tactic of reaching into a prison to use as his star witness a man beholden to the Justice Department. The Chief Justice made it clear that under these circumstances the testimony of the witness should not be believed.

Who's who

Clyde Ellis, retired head of the Rural Electric Co-op Assn., was discussing the other day on the subject of the outcome, known to an earlier generation as the "Chic Solo."

"The young secretary who typed those remarks told me she had never heard the term 'Chic Solo,'" said Ellis. "She could not soundly pronounce it to her."

"I mentioned this to Orville Freeman, the Secretary of Agriculture. He was amazed that anyone wouldn't know what a Chic Solo was and then asked 'What's psychodelic?'

"The next day when I told the young lady what Secretary Freeman had said, she asked 'Who's Secretary Freeman?'

Headlines and footnotes

It may be denied, but organizers of the Poor People's March on Washington have secretly organized the marchers to violate local ordinances. The organizers are reported looting, burning and violence, but below the surface traffic slowdowns and slowdowns of the police will dominate their aims and achieve their goal with Congress. . . Mrs. Martin Luther King on the other hand, has been urging King's successors to continue his crusade for nonviolence. She has been using her influence inside the civil rights movement to avoid a repetition of the riots that followed his martyrdom. . . The U.S. Air Force ranked team of communications equipment to Paris for the truce talks. Tolphane switchboards need to make fast-speed. Arthur Goldberg has told interview that after he retires as U.S. ambassador, he intends to speak out on the issues. He will air his view that the Vietnam war has kept the U.S. in a diplomatic stranglehold and has provoked America's enemies in other areas. John Shu-Chien, the deputy director of studies at Chongming University, has been called to the FBI boards and accused of treason. His crime is that he was once a Harvard classmate of the late President Kennedy.

A Conservative View

by James J. Kilpatrick

WASHINGTON: The Crime Control Act approved in the Senate last week contains a long section—it runs on to 90 pages—authorizing the omnibus use of "bug" and wiretaps, under court order, is not unacceptable.

Justices Clark and his brother summed it up succinctly: "No man's private property, liberty or life, if organized or even od criminal can be unmolested over and that in their urban locations. However, eavesdroppers may be more 'ignoble' or 'dirty' than are burglars, robbers, rapists, and murderers. It cannot be denied that with such specimens of society, eavesdroppers are merely useful, they are a necessity."

The bill just approved in the Senate is intended to overturn the Borger decision. If the House agrees, federal agencies would be permitted to obtain court orders, good for 30 days, authorizing them to tap wires or to use "bugs" in order to obtain evidence relating to certain crimes: espionage, sabotage, treason, murder, kidnapping, robbery, extortion, labor racketeering, bribery of jurors, interstate gambling, counterfeiting, transportation of stolen goods, and traffic in narcotic drugs.

The Senate would be authorized to adopt companion legislation, authorizing their local prosecuting attorneys to obtain court orders permitting electronic eavesdropping in any case "punishable by imprisonment for more than one year."

In an emergency situation, specially designated officers would be permitted to conduct such surveillance for up to 48 hours without a court order. The act contains elaborate safeguards. Judges would have to be well satisfied of "probable cause." Every application for a wiretap would have to spell out precisely what evidence was sought. Extensive reports would be required. The Senate bill is plainly the product of painstaking care.

Reluctantly, and with the most serious reservations, I would go along with this bill. The provision for "emergency" wiretaps plainly is susceptible to abuse. To permit electronic surveillance by police in any case "punishable by imprisonment for more than one year" is to take in a lot of territory. The very idea of the state tapping a citizen's telephone, regardless of judicial safeguards, smacks of totalitarian rule.

Letters to the editor

Editor, The Sea Coast Echo:

I was with great concern that I read Pfc. William Barnes' message, To Draft Dodgers, in the Letters to the Editor column of your May 2 issue. I must, however, add my comments regarding the last line of his poem, Wives and parents aren't the only ones who care about our welfare in Vietnam. There are many others. The people I'm referring to are those Americans who don't have time to take part in riots and looting, or demonstrate for a cause they know nothing about.

These are our fellow Americans—the citizens who support us with their letters and cookies from home. And, when they're not writing or baking, they can be found working on community projects, making home better for our return.

So, to you who are behind us and concerned about our welfare, thank you! Not just from myself, but from every serviceman over here. We're grateful for your support.

well now, there had been a period when faculty and inadequate maintenance had caused the systems not to operate properly. Trustees indicated this could be looked into in the fall as a newly established maintenance schedule did not work out.

A delegation of parents asked that special education classes at Clermont Harbor be continued for one or two days a week during summer.

This they felt would let children go over the things they had learned during the school year as they have a tendency to forget if not guided constant learning. The parents said the children like going to school and missed both their friends during summer.

Parents agreed to provide transportation for two days per week over the summer months in effort to overcome any losses.

They also pointed out that the City Municipal Separate School System is considering special education class in several of the Clermont Harbor students may be in a district. They said each class was limited to one teacher to students maximum less they could obtain a second teacher then they would be led to lessen pre-enrollment.

Board President Edward Orto said "There's a will there's a way and we have the will to help these children, your children please give us a little time to find the way."

Garriga's vehicle allegedly struck in the right side of a pickup truck driven by Tom J. Mendoza, Jr., of Laredo, Mendoza told Garriga that his brakes failed when he attempted to stop for the light at US 90 and North Beach Blvd.

Hearing is set for June 6.

Louis A. Franco of New Orleans was charged with driving while intoxicated after his car collided with the rear of an automobile operated by Clifford Smith of Long Beach. Garriga said this occurred on US 90 and North Beach at 4:45 p.m.

Ruled as unavoidable was an automobile-bicycle mishap on Main Avenue shortly before Monday, Carl W. Hall, 10, of 319 Carroll Ave., was taken to the Hancock General emergency room, checked and released after he was hit while riding on his bicycle by Esther D. Costello of New Orleans. WILLIAM M. COLMER SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Congressman William M. Colmer today formally announced his candidacy for re-election to the post of U.S. Congressman from the 5th District in the June 4th Democratic Primary.

The veteran Congressman has represented this District for more than three decades, gaining experience, knowledge and stature in the Congress. He ranks fourth in seniority in the U.S. House of Representatives. Under the rule of seniority that prevails in the Congress, he has become Chairman of the powerful House Rules Committee, the first Mississippian to serve in this position. He is the senior member of the National Forest Recreational Commission, composed of two Members of the House, two Members of the Senate, and three Members of the President's Cabinet. Congressman Colmer has received many awards including the highly-prized George Washington Day Award of the American Good Government Society and the Distinguished Service Award of the Americans for Constitutional Action.

While he is recognized nationally, he has continued to serve actively the people of his District. He has promoted the development of the ports and waterways of South Mississippi, which includes the Pascagoula Waterway District, the Pearl River Basin Development District, the Harrison County Development District, the Harrison County Development Commission and the ports of Pascagoula, Biloxi, Gulfport, and Hancock County. During Mr. Colmer's stewardship as Congressman, there has been a rise in annual income in agriculture from $18,677,361 to over $65,000,000; an increase in employment by industry from 16,140, to 61,164; and a growth in wages from $16,374,572 to $419,626,392 per year.

Congressman Colmer's personal statement follows:

"To the Sovereign Voters of the 5th Congressional District of Mississippi:

"I am a candidate for re-election to the Congress in the June 4th Democratic Primary.

"I renew my candidacy with the solemn pledge to continue my best efforts in endeavoring to the progress of South Mississippi and the well-being of its citizens. I will renew my fight against the ever-increasing efforts of the political elements to concentrate all the power of the government in Washington at the expense of the States and the liberties of the people. Likewise, I shall continue my efforts to achieve a balanced budget and a sound fiscal policy and, combat inflation and national bankruptcy.

"In this primary, we are largely unknown, but we are well known in our communities. Therefore, I ask your help in this campaign. There is no better way to help us than to let our friends know that most of my own time in Congress has been spent in the service of the people. Therefore, I shall sincerely examine the records of each candidate and let you know what is of value in their record.

"We are asking your support in our campaign and above all, our thanks for your help in getting our message across to the voters of the 5th District. Thank you for your support and let us work together for the welfare of our District and the State of Mississippi."

MISS DIANNE KINGSTON
Miss Kingston is engaged to Mr. LaFrance

Announcement is made this week by Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kingstone of the engagement of their daughter, Dianne Inz, to Douglas Jules LaFrance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester LaFrance. The wedding is planned for 2 p.m. June 22 at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

The bride-elect was graduated this spring from Bay Senior High School. Her fiance, a graduate of Bay High, is now associated with an automobile agency in New Orleans.

To Ole Miss

A large group journeyed to Ole Miss on Saturday afternoon to present a Edna (Abe) Bourque received her degree. They were her father, Sidney, wife Edith and Sidney, Jr.; Shirley and C.J. Piazza and children; Charlotte, Sam, and Shirley; Mary Margaret and Lauren Turcotte; Stella Schindler and children, Jackie and Walter; Sue Garcia and Michael McGill.

Sixty-four seniors had to occur on Wednesday as we could only dash in and grab a couple of quietures as we fear that hingisly started swinging after a left. So catchy were times ordered on the piano by Mrs. Dell that some who vowed they hadn't danced in a moon's time took to the floor.

Eve and Charlie Cox and Phil and Jimmy Lagassee hosted a swell beach party for lots-of-Eve Morgan Sunday. Barbecued shrimp and beans were among delicacies served. We're happy to report that the Morganse are moving no farther than Long Beach in order to save Ed milledly in his trek to Pascagoula.

Summer fun

Once again the very active Mary is sponsoring Summerlin House at Webb Community Center. Myrt Haas is over-all chairman and some real experts are to conduct classes. Registration will take place May 31 and June 1. There will be something appealing to everyone from 16 years of age including children's theater produced by art, arts and crafts, by two pens, Springer and Smith; babyitting, Lucille Vessey and CA Martinich, Dennis, Virginia Wagner, and older girls. If improvement courses by former John Robert Powers teacher, Fay Dunn and Dot Blodgette, who is an expert on styling.

We couldn't but admire Andy Martinich's paternal goodness. In tag two of his sons to lunch May—that was until we saw the later in the day busily landing the town around his clinic. Eunice and John Shaw drove down and visited the Bay Sunday.

Gripe corn

A friend asks that remind the Waveland city fathers their promise to re-site Central Ave. to the St. Louis line. It's been paved, but larger pot holes appear each rain and in spots it's downright perilous.

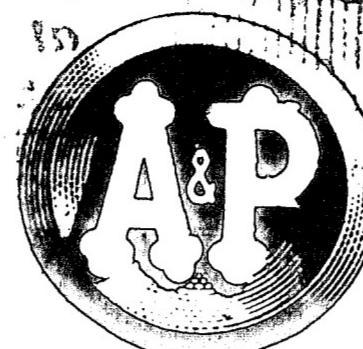

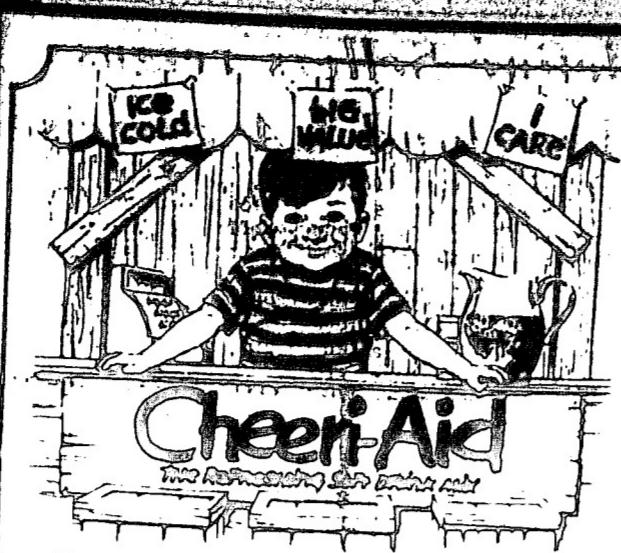

Despite the monsoons, Donald Everette took off Saturday for Pensacola, Fla., where they plan to spend their vacation camping on the beach. They took along their own tent, cooking equipment, etc.

SIGHTS AND SOUNDS ALONG THE WAY—Stately stalks of multi-hued gladioli popping into blossom all over town; two small boys dashing down the long sandbank prior attempting to escape the robs; a scruffy, all-white cat playfully racing across Beach Blvd. and the sound of waves sloshing sharply against the sand beach.
